

FOLLOW US ON FACEBOOK

FOLLOW US ON TWITTER

FOLLOW US ON INSTAGRAM

NEWSLETTER

Favourite Photo - "On the work bench... a bespoke/custom made piece that will be making its way to Ireland to match a pair of earrings." - October 11th

Our most popular "Did you know?" segment

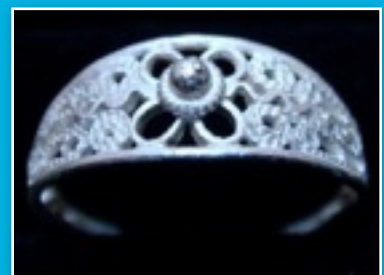

Did you know?

Turquoise is the oldest gemstones in human history

Steeped with history and mystery turquoise is truly a captivating stone. Turquoise is called a gemstone of the life, and is esteemed for thousands of years as a holy stone, a bringer of good and fortune. It is believed to have healing property, truly captivating power and considered as protection against evil and ill health to ward off the influence of dark and evil powers. Formerly it was thought to protect riders and horses from accidental falls; nowadays considered the ideal good-luck stones with great Healing Powers. In many cultures of the Old and New Worlds, this gemstone has been esteemed as a holy stone, a bringer of good fortune or a talisman. - October 15th

*Last months
weekly specials*

Visit our Website